

Job Search Journal

A 90-Day Guide for Students & Fresh Graduates

“One application. One reflection. One step closer.”

Welcome to The Little Corner Thoughts Job Search Journal.

I created this journal to help you stay intentional throughout your job search. Over the next 90 days, you'll track your applications, reflect on your experiences, and identify small improvements that will help you grow.

Whether you're looking for a full-time job, part-time job, a paid internship, or an unpaid internship, the goal is simple: get yourself into the game and keep showing up.

Take 10 minutes every Sunday to complete your weekly check-in. Celebrate your progress, learn from challenges, and prepare for the week ahead.

You're not aiming for perfection. You're building momentum.

Let's begin.....

Final Reflection

Three months ago, I felt...

Today, I feel...

The biggest lesson I learned...

Something I'm proud of...

My next step...

Dear Student,

If you're reading this, you've already done something many people never do—you stayed committed to yourself.

Whether you've accepted an offer or you're still waiting, don't overlook how much you've grown over these 90 days. You've applied, learned, reflected, adapted, and kept moving forward.

Careers aren't built overnight. They're built one application, one conversation, one interview, and one lesson at a time.

Thank you for letting me be part of your journey.

Keep learning.

Keep showing up.

Keep believing in yourself.

It only takes one 'yes' to change everything.

With you every step of the way,

The Little Corner Thoughts
